

February 6, 2008

Killeen, TX – The Central Texas Business Resource Center (The BRC), a collaboration of the Central Texas Workforce System, Central Texas College and the Greater Killeen Chamber of Commerce announces that it will conduct the second annual Fort Hood Region Government Vendor Conference & Exposition, February 6, 2008 at the Killeen Civic & Conference Center in Killeen Texas. This conference will feature a vendor exposition, opportunities for small business owners to learn about accessing multi-million dollar government and private sector markets in potential subcontracting opportunities in 2008, as well as provide the opportunity to network one-on-one with procurement representatives from government and private sector prime contractors.

“The Greater Killeen and Fort Hood business community is growing at a phenomenal rate. We want to provide these businesses with every opportunity to start, grow and increase their productivity,” says Marcus Carr, Director of the Central Texas Business Resource Center. “This government contracting conference and exposition will allow small businesses in our area of Texas to learn about government and private sector contracting rules, procedures and opportunities so that they can access the multi-million dollar contracting market.”

Federal and state government purchasers procure billions of dollars in goods and services annually. The Fort Hood Region Government Contracting Conference and Expo will provide small businesses, including small disadvantaged businesses, women-owned, 8(A), HUB-certified, and veteran-owned businesses, access to government and private sector contracting opportunities and information. The conference includes a business exposition that will provide the opportunity for military, federal, state and local government agencies, and their prime contractors to interconnect and build future relationships with small woman-owned and/or minority owned businesses in the Greater Killeen and Fort Hood area. Seminars and workshops for small business owners will be conducted to further inform and provide the tools needed to expand their business opportunities.
